FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

#DEEP13 IRC CHANNEL ANNOUNCES INTENT TO SUE OVER 400 DIFFERENT PARTIES

GAYLORD, MI, December 5, 2009 – The #Deep13 IRC channel, as part of ceremonies celebrating its 11th anniversary, has announced their intent to sue over 400 different parties in an effort to upstage known lawsuit expert Jonathan Lee Riches, who is known for filing similar lawsuits against similarly large numbers of parties.

Channel spokesman RobertoKay explains that all the parties were chosen based out of a criteria of “whoever we could come up with”, highlighted by 37 Dicks (in a row), several inanimate objects, numerous fictional characters, a small number of meaningless phrases, as well as a large number of known public figures, including Mr. Riches, who was noted as the inspiration for this lawsuit.

Though no actual intent is given for the lawsuit, Mr. Kay explains that the lawsuit is not without purpose, stating that “We feel that this lawsuit sends a message to the people of this great country that, no matter how ridiculous and downright batshit some people may be, there will always be someone who will make them look normal by comparison.”

The first and last names listed in this suit were chosen to highlight their importance and significance. Skype is listed as the first name due to its failure to maintain a decent connection. Arnold Schwarzenegger is listed as the final defendant simply because he's a cop, you idiot.

The full list of parties are as follows:
